Join us for an entertaining presentation from "The Vicars of Vegetables"

The Vicars of Vegetables, otherwise known as Irwin Goldman and Jim Nienhuis, are Horticulture Professors at the UW-Madison and frequent guests on Wisconsin Public Radio. They are poetic, hilarious, and passionate about all kinds of vegetables, especially the chili pepper, tomato, and under-appreciated beets. Professor Goldman's lecture on "Social Justice for Beets," and Professor Nienhuis' vegetable haiku poetry embrace vegetable appreciation. Their research "gets into the dirt" on disease resistance, genetics, plant breeding, horticultural environment, and the connection to human health and well-being.
